IPR and Traditional knowledge of India

U.E.S. Mahila Mahavidyalaya, Solapur organized a One Day State-Level Webinar on the Topic 'IPR and Traditional Knowledge of India' under IQAC on 23rd March 2023 at 9.30AM on Google Meet Platform. Dr .I .J. Tamboli (I/C Principal, S.S.A.Art's & Commerce College) was invited as a Chief Guest. Dr. Mrs. Siddharaj Deepashri Choudri (Assistant Professor, Amity University, Mumbai) was invited as a Key Note Speaker.

Google Meet link was shared to students on whatsapp group and SETO group for other colleges to join the Webinar. Convenor of the Webinar was Shaikh N.P. Soudagar A.J. anchored the Program. I/C Principal Shaikh F.M. were the president of the function.

Webinar was commenced with the Praise of Almighty Allah. BAII student IramNaaz recited the Surah Fateha. Soudagar A.J. Welcomed the Chief Guest , Key Note Speaker and students to the Webinar. Introduction of the Chief Guest was given by Shaikh Imam.

Dr. I. J. Tamboli addressed the students for 45 minutes in his speech he explained the definition of Intellectual Property Rights and Traditional Knowledge of India.

He Says that Intellectual Property Rights is a term that rarely requires explanation in modern times. The phrase Intellectual Property expresses the notion that its subject matter is the result of the intellect or mind. It serves as both a deterrent and an incentive for creators, whose work might otherwise be freely exploited by others. In relation to the Traditional Knowledge it incorporates development from one generation to the next, physical and intangible knowledge, and both potential and real innovations of value. Traditional knowledge forms the basis of cultural heritage. Due to its great biodiversity and natural riches, India has a wealth of traditional knowledge regarding the qualities and uses of various biological resources.

He clarifies how & why Traditional Knowledge of India is to be preserved.

The term "Traditional Knowledge" is defined as "Traditional knowledge relates to local and indigenous cultures' awareness, inventions, and customs all over the world. Orally passed from generation to generation is traditional knowledge that has been learned through decades of experience and suited to the local culture and environment."

He presented the following two paradigms for protecting the traditions of India.

The first protective paradigm attempts to prevent others from exploiting traditional knowledge or acquiring intellectual property rights over it. In order to combat alleged abuses such as biopiracy, several communities have built traditional knowledge databases to document their traditional knowledge as prior art. Different communities have their own traditional or customary laws governing the use of traditional knowledge, which may differ significantly from their national or international system of intellectual property rights.

The second protective paradigm (commonly referred to as "positive protection") aims to achieve legal protection for traditional knowledge. This is accomplished by utilizing either the current laws or legislative procedures to enact new laws of their own kind.

Second speaker of the Webinar was Dr. Deepashri Madam. Introduction of the key Note speaker was presented by A.J. Soudagar. After her introduction Dr. Deepashri Madam started her mind blowing speech. She explained the IPR and Traditional Knowledge of India with various examples.

She narrated the story of turmeric case. Turmeric is a tropical herb grown in east India. Turmeric powder is widely used in India as a medicine, a food ingredient and a dye to name a few of its uses<sup>3</sup>. For instance, it is used as a blood purifier, in treating the common cold, and as an anti-parasitic for many skin infections. It is also used as an essential ingredient in cooking many Indian dishes. In 1995, the United States awarded patent on turmeric to University of Mississippi medical center for wound healing property. The claimed subject matter was the use of "turmeric powder and its administration", both oral as well as topical, for wound healing. An exclusive right has been granted to sell and distribute. The Indian Council for Scientific and Industrial Research (CSIR) had objected to the patent granted and provided documented evidences of the prior art to USPTO. Though it was a well known fact that the use of turmeric was known in every household since ages in India, it was a herculean task to find published information on the use of turmeric powder through oral as well as topical route for wound healing. Due to extensive researches, 32 references were located in different languages namely Sanskrit, Urdu and Hindi. Therefore, the USPTO revoked the patent, stating that the claims made in the patent were obvious and anticipated, and agreeing that the use of turmeric was an old art of healing wounds. Therefore, the TK that belonged to India was safeguarded in Turmeric case.

She also gave the example of Neem Case and Basmati Case.

85 students attended the Webinar. Feedback link is shared to the Students during the meeting. Responses were received and Certificate will be sent on the Email to those who have filled the Feedback Forms.

I/C Principal Dr. Farzana Madam was the President Of the Valedictory Function. She gave the Presidential Speech. program was ended with the Vote of Thanks proposed by Shaikh I.B.
